

One Type of Attitude to Avoid at All Cost

I. Just because you don't like what was said, doesn't mean the person shouldn't have said it.

Most of the stuff we're "not supposed to say" are actually innocuous – or worse yet – very necessary, potentially Christ-honoring things . . . but the author/"hearer" is just not in the mood to hear it.

II. People who accept the beauty of God's sovereignty in their lives don't respond with bad attitudes about the people God uses to conform them to His image. They encourage each other to love and good works.

Consider your motivation the next time you start compiling lists of things you think people shouldn't say or do to you. Your first priority should be to check your own heart.

Love.
